Sapienza in International Development. Strategies, Projects, Initiatives

Carlo Giovanni Cereti, Francesca Giofrè – Sapienza University of Rome

Every two years Sapienza organizes a conference dedicated to development cooperation. In December 2018, we thought about organizing it when we received the proposal of hosting the SPHERE Conference in Rome, and we thought to link the two events, because the topics were somehow correlated. The European Union network SPHERE, Support and Promotion for Higher Education Reform Experts, organized the Higher Education Reform Experts (HERE) Conference on 12 and 13 of December in Sapienza, Rome, focusing on a pragmatic, hands-on approach, exploring and showcasing specific collaborative, international projects in which HERE are involved, which have a policy reform impact or other potential impact in their countries. For that reason Sapienza organized the Conference “Sapienza in International Development: Strategies, Projects, Initiatives” with the collaboration of Foundation Rome Sapienza, a day before in the 11th of December, to involve more people attending HERE Conference to participate and to show the Sapienza activities in the development cooperation. The Conference took place in the Aula Magna of Rectorate in Sapienza and it has been dedicated to the presentation of the projects that Sapienza is leading or partnering in the whole world within the frame of development cooperation, with a special emphasis on capacity building actions in the four main geographical areas identified as: Africa, MENA countries, Latin America and Asia. The event focused on development cooperation strategies and policies of Sapienza with the intervention of the Italian Development Cooperation Agency and our Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Sapienza professors, researchers and students presented initiatives, activities and projects in the field development cooperation.

The papers, organized by geographical areas, testify to the important results of the international cooperation.

The volume describes Sapienza's cooperation policies conveying a full picture of the strategical geographical areas of cooperation for Sapienza.

The Sapienza for International Development Cooperation event was organized thanks to the synergy between the Scientific Committee and ARI, Sapienza's Area for International Cooperation, hereby we also wish to thank Prof. Bruno Botta, Vice President for International Affairs and Prof. Antonello Biagini, President of Sapienza Foundation; moreover we wish to thank our special guests Giorgio Marrapodi, General Director for Development Cooperation at Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation and the politician, academic, writer and journalist Jean-Léonard Touadi. Thank you to all for helping us in making our project come true.
